Point of Care Assessment For Transfers

What is it?

A point of care assessment for transfers is a quick mini-appraisal you, the health care worker, do to make sure a person's abilities still match what's in their care plan. It doesn't replace the typical risk assessment completed as part of a person's care plan. Rather, it's a tool you use in addition to the care plan assessments.

Why do it?

People's abilities change—sometimes hourly. A person who could transfer with minimal assistance in the morning may not be able to do so in the afternoon. To keep yourself and the person in care safe, it's important to assess a person's abilities before and during a transfer.

Who does it?

The care giver does the point of care assessment. If you're moving a person, do a point of care assessment first.

How do I do it?

A point of care risk assessment has four areas that you cover, with questions in each area.

PERSON IN CARE	ENVIRONMENT	TASK	YOURSELF
What do I see and hear?	Is the area safe?	Does this task need to be done right now?	Am I settled?
Is the person ready?	Is this the right height for		Can I do the task safely?
	my task?	Have I checked the care
Can they follow direction?		plan?	Am I focussed ?
	Is there a risk of the bed/
Can they lean forward	chair moving while	Are there any changes to	Am I rushing?
sitting, lift their buttocks	completing my task?	the care plan?
off the bed, step or shuffle?			Is my positioning correct?
	Do I have space, and do I	Do I understand the task?
	have what I need?

If you identify something that could be unsafe, stop! Use another approach (e.g. mechanical lift) and/ or ask for help. In all cases, follow your organization's procedures to report a temporary change in the person's functional status and/or request a reassessment.

Below is a supplementary poster that you can refer to and share within your organization.

Point of Care Assessment For Transfers

- A point-of-care assessment is a series of questions
  to ask yourself about
  the person in care,
  environment, the task
  and you, as the care giver.
- This quick, informal check-in reminds you to observe both the person for signs of physical or cognitive changes and the environment for potential risk.

ASSESS

THE

RISK

Employers have a responsibility to support the use of a point of a care assessment by sharing it with staff, and providing instructions on what to do if risks are identified.

PERSON IN CARE

WHAT DO I SEE AND HEAR?

IS THE PERSON READY?

CAN THEY FOLLOW DIRECTION?

CAN THEY LEAN FORWARD SITTING, LIFT THEIR BUTTOCKS OFF THE BED, STEP, OR SHUFFLE?

ENVIRONMENT

IS THE AREA SAFE?

IS THIS THE RIGHT HEIGHT FOR MY TASK?

IS THERE A RISK OF THE BED/CHAIR MOVING WHILE COMPLETING MY TASK?

DO I HAVE SPACE, AND DO I HAVE WHAT I NEED?

CAN I EASILY GET HELP?

TASK

DOES THIS TASK NEED TO BE DONE RIGHT NOW?

HAVE I CHECKED THE CARE PLAN?

ANY CHANGES TO THE CARE PLAN?

DO I UNDERSTAND THE TASK?

YOURSELF

AM I SETTLED?

CAN I DO THE TASK SAFELY

AM | FOCUSSED?

AMIRUSHING?

IS MY POSITIONING CORRECT?