Total claims costs

22,180 total work days lost to injuries in 2021 is like losing the equivalent of 89 full-time staff.

What can you do?

- 1

You have control over workplace health and safety, but you don't have to do it alone. We are here to help.
- 2

Participate in our Tailored Outreach Program
- 3

When your injury claims are lower than the sector average, you'll realize a discount on your WorkSafeBC premiums.

Improve your health and safety:

 - Provide training and education in health and safety
 - Have frequent safety huddles with your team
 - Meet often with your safety committee or worker representative
 - Make health and safety a regular topic of discussion with staff and leadership
- 4

Understand your injury data and trends through your employer tool kit. If your claims are higher than the sector average, you'll pay more.

Know your data and injury trends:

 - The number of injuries in your workplace
 - Investigate all accidents and injuries - including near misses
 - The number of days injured workers are off work and when they return to work after an injury
 - Injury trends over the last five years.
