Know the SCORE on workplace incivility

Incivility in the workplace is a major issue that can negatively impact the well-being of your staff and the care your residents and clients receive.

SCORE— Strengthening a Culture of Respect and Engagement—is a new program to help you overcome these issues.

This 9-12 month facilitated program empowers your staff to make small, sustainable changes that improve civility, respect, and engagement in the workplace. Members who are accepted to SCORE, will receive customized and ongoing facilitation, coaching, mentorship, and support.

Want to learn more? Join us on February 25 at 11 a.m. for a free information session.

Improve your leadership skills in Leading from the Inside Out

Leading From the Inside Out is a multi-session program that provides a safe space for continuing care leaders to share their challenges and learn leading practices in self-care.

This program is designed for you if:

- You lead long-term care, home care, and community health support staff.
- You want to improve your leadership skills by learning about self-care, managing staff stress, practical communication skills, and emotional intelligence.
- You seek a safe space to learn from other long-term and home care leaders and managers.

The next Leading from the Inside Out session starts on April 1.
